Clay Walker, Senior Vice President, Players, Inc. featured in BRANDWEEK, the Newsweekly of Marketing

Clay Walker, Senior Vice President for Players, Inc. (the licensing and marketing area of the National Football League Players Association) is a 1989 graduate from East Carolina University receiving his B.A. in English. Clay went on to get his M.B.A. from Colorado State University and a Master's degree in Labor Relations from UMASS. He currently serves on the College of Health and Human Performance Advancement Council and he is a generous contributor of his time and resources for the advancement of HHP. Clay not only contributes to the College personally, but also has recently provided Super Bowl tickets with accommodations in 2003 and is providing HHP with Carolina Panthers tickets as a College fundraiser this year.

Clay and his wife Anne, an international attorney, have two children, a five-year old son Davis and a twenty-month old daughter, Caroline. The Walker family resides in Potomac, MD.

In 1993 Clay began his career with the former NFLPA as the Assistant Vice President of this organization. Players, Inc. was formed in 1994 and he became Senior Vice President in 1996, overseeing the entire retail licensing business. The headquarters for Players, Inc. is located in downtown Washington, D.C.

Under Clay's leadership, Players, Inc. has experienced nearly double-digit growth in licensed products every year since their inception. Due to such success, Clay explains in his BRANDWEEK interview, "When we were small, it was easier to get those double digit increases. Now you are looking at a big number-$750 million in licensed products. Getting 10% growth, hitting $800-$825 million in 2004, that's going to be a real challenge."

During the interview Clay explains this growth in licensed products has come from "the players, especially in such categories as trading cards, apparel, collectibles, video games and fantasy football. But the arrangement we've worked out with the league has allowed us to put players into commercials and endorsement deals that they had not previously done."

PLAYERS

Clay's success has not only come in business. He also somehow finds time between his family and his business career to be an adjunct professor of Sports Management at George Washington University and has been a guest speaker in Sports Management graduate classes at ECU. We are trying to work out a time in his extremely busy schedule for him to come back and speak again this year. On behalf of the College of Health and Human Performance, we would like to thank Clay for his many generous efforts.

BB&T Foundation Funds the College of Health and Human Performance Wall of Honor

The College of Health and Human Performance will be dedicating the BB&T Wall of Honor after the first of the year in January. The Wall, funded through the generosity of the Branch Bank and Trust Foundation, will have five panels that will recognize HHP Outstanding Seniors, Alumni Awards, University Faculty Awards, and College of HHP Faculty Awards. It will be located in a major thoroughfare in Minges to ensure maximum exposure. This BB&T Foundation contribution of $35,000 will honor this College by providing a beautiful display recognizing major academic accomplishments at HHP. Two individuals to whom we owe a debt of gratitude are primarily responsible for the establishment of the wall. Mr. John Hudson, former Advancement Council Chair and current Council Member and new Council Member Mr. Jerry Wilkins, Senior Vice President Regional Corporate Banker of BB&T worked extremely hard to make sure this project happened. We sincerely thank them both and extend particular appreciation to the BB&T Foundation for their generosity and support on this meaningful contribution.

Joe Pecheles Volkswagen, Inc. agrees to sponsor the HHP Winner's Circle Breakfast

The annual Winner's Circle Breakfast has been a headline event for the College of Health and Human Performance to recognize our most deserving students with scholarship awards and honors. This year's event will be named the Joe Pecheles Volkswagen, Inc. Winner's Circle Breakfast for the College of Health and Human Performance thanks to the generosity of Mr. Brian Pecheles, President of Joe Pecheles Volkswagen, Inc. Brian has served on the College of Health and Human Performance Advancement Council for over two years and has been extremely generous with both his time and resources. This summer, Brian agreed to fully fund the cost of this wonderful annual event that gathers faculty, alumni, students and their families. Brian will also be contributing an annually funded scholarship of $1,000.00 to be given to an outstanding student at the College of Health and Human Performance during the event. Brian and specifically Joe Pecheles Volkswagen, Inc. have agreed to underwrite the breakfast and scholarship initially for two years. We are thrilled to have a local business with a reputation for excellence paired with the top-caliber students at HHP. On behalf of the College and our best and brightest students, we say thank you to Brian for his generosity and support.

Remember Your College and Help Your Tax Status

As the holiday season approaches and the calendar year draws to a close, now is the time to look at charities and organizations that have made a significant impact on our lives. Some people analyze what funds they may have available to ease their tax burden. Most reflect on the things that have left a lasting impression on their lives. Certainly, what is now the College of Health and Human Performance housing the academic departments of Exercise and Sports Science, Health Education and Promotion, and Recreation and Leisure Studies, has had a huge impact on your professional life and personal philosophies. Whether it is tax-relief, life-altering experiences or a combination of the two, please consider making an end-of-year contribution to the College.

By taking time now to consider what to give, when to give and how to give, you can assure that your gift has maximum impact on your academic unit. No matter your income level, if you itemize, you can almost always lower your income taxes through charitable giving. The amount of tax savings will depend on your tax bracket.

Methods of giving include cash, stocks and other securities, life insurance and real estate. Gifts of cash are the most common and most convenient gift. If you itemize your taxes, this could add to your tax savings. Just make sure that your envelope enclosed with your donation is postmarked by December 31, 2004 to be counted in this calendar year. Contributions of appreciated stocks or securities can be one of the best ways to give. If you have owned your gift of stock for over one year you may deduct the full fair market value of the stock as a charitable contribution, which will bypass all capital gains taxes. Your gift of stock must be postmarked by December 31, 2004. Also your stock broker or trust officer can arrange for a year-end gift of stock from your account. Insurance is another great way to give to the College of Health and Human Performance. To qualify the College of Health and Human Performance through the East Carolina University Foundation, Inc must be made owner and beneficiary. If the policy is fully paid, your charitable contribution is generally the replacement value or cost basis of the policy. For a policy not fully paid, ongoing premiums paid on a gifted life insurance policy also qualify for charitable deductions. Real estate can be a great gift as long as you have owned the property for one full year. You may deduct the fair market value of the property while avoiding all capital gains taxes.

Due to the limitations of state allocations, your charitable contributions are vital to the enhancement of the academic programming, facilities, technology, student scholarships. Your contributions regardless of the amount enhance the holistic educational experience that we offer our majors. If you have any questions regarding end-of-year contributions, please call Greg Abeyounis, Director of Development at 252-328-4662. Attached is a business reply envelope that goes directly to the ECU Foundation, Inc. Fill out the back of that envelope designating the College of Health and Human Performance with your dollar total. In the section below that on a line labeled Other just write in the specific discretionary account (College of Health and Human Performance, Exercise and Sports Science Department, Health Education and Promotion Department, or Recreation and Leisure Studies Department) you desire to give to. The monies will be credited to that account. You will immediately receive a receipt and a thank you letter from University Advancement to be followed by one from Dr. Glen Gilbert, Dean of the College of Health and Human Performance. Your gift, regardless of the size, has an immediate impact on today's students. Thank you for your support and generosity!

For example, if you give $1,000 gift before December 31, 2004, and you are in the 28% tax bracket, your gift could save you $280 in taxes.*

Federal Tax Bracket	10%	15%	25%	28%	33%	35%
